Asylum for minors: children or young people under 21 who have left their country of origin and are afraid to return may be eligible for asylum.

Naturalization: we help permanent residents apply for US citizenships after 3 or 5 years as permanent residents, depending on the case.

Citizenship classes: we offer classes in English to prepare for citizenship test.

Know your rights: we provide information on how to prepare in case of an encounter with an immigration officer. Know your constitutional rights regardless of legal status!

Legal consultations and educational presentations: learn about your immigration options, including family petitions, and how to prepare for future immigration reform.

DACA (Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals): children who came to the United States before age 16 and who have lived in the United States since at least June 15, 2007. We help with the initial application and renewals.

DAPA (Deferred Action for Parents of US Citizens and Legal Permanent Residents): the government is not accepting requests right now, but we can advise you on how to prepare if this program is approved or for an eventual immigration reform.

Temporary Protected Status (TPS): people from certain countries that the US government has designated, may be eligible to remain in the US temporarily.

Special Immigrant Juvenile Status (SIJS): for young people under 21 years old and single. They have to prove that they cannot be reunited with one or both parents and have suffered abuse, neglect or abandonment.

Renewals: we assist in the renewal of green cards and work permits.

T Visa: victims of human trafficking may be eligible for a T visa that allows them to obtain a work permit.

U Visa: the victims of a serious crime (eg, domestic violence, kidnapping, sexual abuse, and many other crimes) may be eligible to receive a work permit.

VAWA (Violence Against Women Act): spouses and children of US citizens or lawful permanent residents and parents of US citizens who have been beaten or abused, may qualify for permanent residence.

Note: We reserve the right to change this list according to our capacity. Given the volume of customers we serve every day, we can't guarantee immediate availability. The fee for the first consultation is $25
